AROUND PLEASANTON

By JEB BING

As economy picks up, so does city spending

After a three-year hiatus, spending on municipal projects and improvements is back on the list of priorities for the Pleasanton City Council. At its June 4 meeting, the council approved a two-year work plan that includes millions of dollars of "high priority" projects, ending an austere capital improvements program that stopped after the $10 million Firehouse Arts Center was built in 2010.

With the economy improving and tax revenue picking up, the council's first project will be another phase of improvements to the city-owned Bernal Community Park, where $15 million lighted baseball fields and an adjoining children's play area were added, also in 2010. Now more will be spent on sports fields, some lighted, for soccer, lacrosse, junior football and, yes, more baseball diamonds. This time, the improvements, authorized as part of a voter referendum, will include a woodlands area, riparian habitat and landscaping along a meandering creek that runs through the site.

The project, when completed, will cost an estimated $15.8 million with part of the funding to come from a Bernal Community Park Reserve that the city government maintained during the recession when sales and property tax revenue tapered off. Another $810,000 would be available from a Capital Improvement Program reserve, also maintained by the city. City Manager Nelson Fialho said he expects to receive another $3.2 million from the East Bay Regional Park District through funds approved by voters when they passed the district's Measure W bond issue. That would still leave a funding gap of more than $5 million which could be raised through a combination of fee assessments for users of the sports fields, contributions from sports organizations, corporate sponsors and a community fundraiser similar to the one that raised more than $1 million for the Firehouse Arts Center.

Last year, the council approved a schematic plan for the second phase of the park which, 12 years after the land was given to the city by several developers in exchange for permits to build homes on the rest of the property, remains undeveloped except for the baseball fields.

Another costly project on the council's 22-page list of priorities is the redevelopment of senior living facilities at Kottinger Place and Pleasanton Gardens with new buildings and more apartments. These aging, subsidized, affordable homes for qualified older residents will be torn down in phases over the next two years and replaced with larger, upgraded apartment buildings that will accommodate nearly twice as many who live there now. The redevelopment proposal goes back 10 years and gained ground last year as the economy improved. A predevelopment agreement has now been granted to Foster City-based MidPeninsula Housing, the developer, owner and manager of more than 90 senior communities.

JEB BING

MidPen, as the company is called, has been meeting with the Kottinger Place Redevelopment Task Force to determine project priorities. MidPen is now preparing a site plan for a new Kottinger Place development between Kottinger Drive and Vineyard Avenue, and including the aging Regalia House that will also be razed. Current development estimates for the two sites range from $59 million to $62.8 million with a city contribution from its senior housing fund of $8.2 million.

New housing on both sites will be largely single story units with far more kitchen, bathroom and closet space than the units now have and with upgrades in electricity and plumbing, including air conditioning. Some of the buildings on what is now the Kottinger Place site will be two stories in height with a few rising to three stories, with elevators. When completed, the apartments will accommodate 189 tenants.

Some projects are already under way, including renovations at the Dolores Bengtson Aquatic Center, which should be completed this summer, and the extension of Stoneridge Drive to El Charro Road, which should open late this fall. ■

Food Allergies?

Food allergies, particularly in children, are clearly on the rise. According to Dr. Hugh Sampson, a food allergy specialist at Mt. Sinai School of Medicine in N.Y. "We are certain that in the future the number of food allergies are going to increase."

Many food allergies are classified as "hidden" allergies due to the fact that an individual may be consuming a food, often times on a daily basis that they have no idea they are allergic to. Frequently, symptoms such as stomach aches, irritable bowel syndrome, acid reflux, indigestion, heartburn, excessive gas and bloating are directly related to food allergies.

Additionally, conditions such as migraine headaches, chronic sinusitis, post nasal drip, rashes, eczema, chronic fatigue, ADD/ADHD, mood swings and difficulty losing weight in many cases can be caused by food allergies.

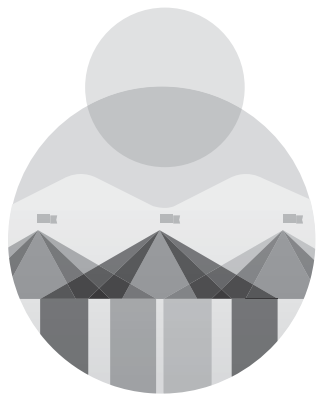

Fortunately, a new, advanced method of treating allergies is now available in the United States. Developed over a ten year period in Australia, a new technology called Advanced Allergy Therapeutics (AAT) is giving new hope to millions of allergy sufferers.

AAT is a holistic, alternative method of treating allergies of all kinds including not only food allergies, but airborne allergens such as pollens, grasses, weeds, trees, molds, dust and dust mites as well as pet/animal/insect allergies, chemical sensitivities and physical contactants. Both the testing and treatments are 100% pain free and non-invasive, and is the ideal choice for those who would prefer not to take drugs, use steroidal inhalers and sprays or go through years of allergy shots. Children especially appreciate the AAT approach over the traditional medical procedures that involve piercing the skin. AAT is safe and effective for people of all ages including infants and produces zero side effects.

AAT is now available in Pleasanton near Stoneridge Mall at Allergy Relief Centers, office of James W. Stalker, DC. Doctor Stalker is offering the initial consultation and complete testing protocol, normally a fee of $125, for only $25 for anyone who would like to experience relief from their allergies without using drugs or shots. A limited number of appointments are available, so call 925-243-7168 today. For more information please visit AllergyReliefCenters.com and for the latest up to date info on allergies visit facebook.com/allergyreliefcenters.

ASKED AT 1ST WEDNESDAY STREET PARTY

What are your plans for Father's Day?

Tasha Laberge-Shusterman
Elementary school student

I am planning to have a Daddy/Daughter Movie Night with my dad and my sister. My dad gets to pick the movies, because it's Father's Day and all, but we know he will pick movies we like.

Kimberly Albers
Recent college grad

Well, I'm pretty sure I'm going to go geocaching with my dad; you know, that's where you go hiking with a GPS and all sorts of expensive equipment, trying to find hidden little treasures, like keychains and plastic trinkets. I don't really understand his fascination with this, but he really enjoys it, and I sure do love my dad, so I'll do it with a smile on my face.

Bill Xenakis
Marketing engineer

We will be heading out to the Douglas Beach House in Half Moon Bay in order to go swing dancing. The Silver Moon Big Band will be there for Father's Day, playing live jazz, and we really love to dance.

Cieara Gragg
Owner, Balloons & Beyond of Pleasanton

My dad is such a foodie, so we're planning to take him to a Latin steakhouse for dinner. I'm also going to surprise him there with an amazing balloon bouquet to make sure everyone in the restaurant knows he's the best and most special dad in the world.

Naseem Yar
Software engineer

I have great plans! I am planning to run with my daughters in the Pleasanton Downtown Rotary Club's annual Father's Day Spirit Run. After that, we'll spend the rest of the day in the back yard, doing our annual Father's Day barbecue and just enjoying being together.

DIGEST

Cultural Plan Update

The Community Services Department is updating Pleasanton's Cultural Plan from 1998, which had six goals including the development of the Firehouse Arts Center.

Community workshops are being held to get input from residents; the third one is scheduled for 6 p.m., Monday, June 24, at the Firehouse Arts Center, 4444 Railroad Ave. At the meeting feedback from the two April workshops will be presented. The draft plan will be shared with the Pleasanton community in October.

For more information or to comment on the process, contact Community Services Manager Michele Crose at 931-5347 or mcrose@cityofpleasantonca.gov.

Maintenance at Senior Center

The Pleasanton Senior Center will close for two weeks for routine maintenance from Monday, June 24, through Sunday, July 7, reopening July 8 for its regular programs.

The center's main hall is currently closed for day use until June 21 for minor construction. The lunch program has been relocated to the lobby area of the Senior Support Program of the Tri-Valley on the premises, and daytime exercise classes are being held at the Veterans Memorial Building at 301 Main St. Drop-in classes and meetings are being relocated, rescheduled or suspended. All other center programming remains unaffected, and evening exercise classes are continuing as scheduled.

Work on the main hall includes resurfacing the floor, and other cleaning and maintenance projects.

Santa Rita closure Monday

Santa Rita Road will be closed to vehicles and pedestrians at the Union Pacific Railroad tracks from 6 a.m. Monday until about 5 p.m. Tuesday to reconstruct the rail crossing.

Southbound traffic will be detoured via Valley Avenue to Stanley Boulevard, and back to Santa Rita Road/Main Street; northbound will be detoured along the same route. Concrete barriers will be installed on Santa Rita Road on both sides of the tracks to ensure that motorists do not attempt to cross.

The Altamont Commuter Express (ACE) train schedule will not be affected by the construction, which will begin Monday after the last morning ACE train passes through the crossing; the tracks will be re-installed before the afternoon ACE schedule.

Pets and takeout food subject to new laws

Protections for pets; no more Styrofoam for takeouts

By GLENN WOHLTMANN

The city of Pleasanton is adopting new laws to help protect pets, and to reduce the amount of trash that goes to landfills.

The city is putting some teeth into laws about leaving dogs in unattended vehicles. It's adapted state law that will allow an officer to issue a citation to anyone who leaves a dog on a hot car.

Animal Control Officer Kristen Hart said first time fines are $100, but can go up to $750 on a fourth offense.

Hart said the Police Department has a digital thermometer that can read a temperature inside a car.

On a hot day, she said, dogs "can suffer heat stroke and even die." That's not only in summer. Hart said the inside temperature of a car can be 30 degrees hotter than outdoors, and since dogs cool themselves by panting, if they're locked in a car, they'll be breathing in warm air.

The new municipal code also protects animals if they're locked outside on a hot day.

It says, in part, that owners need to keep pets from conditions that "endanger the health or well-being of the animal due to heat, cold, lack of proper and adequate shelter and protection from the elements, lack of adequate ventilation, or lack of food or water, or other circumstances that could reasonably be expected to cause suffering..."

Hart says people aren't hesitant to call police if they see an animal locked in a car, and that some days, she gets as many as three calls about the issue, mostly regarding cars parked at the mall or downtown.

"It's a hot topic. A lot of people get heated over it," she said.

The new city codes also can let police intervene if a pet is ill and left untreated. It says in part, that animals "requiring medical attention shall be taken for examination or treatment to a veterinarian at the owner's expense if the Chief

Rotary Club's 20th annual Father's Day Spirit Run set for Sunday

Popular family event raises money for scholarships

By JEB BING

More than 1,500 runners are expected to be downtown Sunday for the 20th annual Father's Day Spirit Run, hosted by the Rotary Club of Pleasanton.

Main Street will be closed from 5 a.m. until about 11 a.m. between Del Valle Parkway and Neal Street to accommodate the runners.

The Rotary Father's Day tradition has continued to grow as runners, their children and families participate in either a 10K run or 5K walk or run, as well as Kids' Challenge races.

The 10K run will start promptly at 8 a.m. under the Pleasanton Arch, followed by the 5K run at 8:20. The courses wind through Pleasanton neighborhoods, the Alameda County Fairgrounds and on trails along the Arroyo del Valle.

Traffic also will be slowed by partial lane closures along the race courses, affecting part of Valley Avenue, Paseo Santa Cruz, Del Valle Parkway, Division Street and St. Mary Street between 7:30 and 9:30 a.m.

Three separate Kid's Challenge Races, for children ages 2-8, include a number of 100-yard dashes on Main Street, finishing right underneath the Arch.

Trophies will go to the top male and female finishers in designated age groups.

Registration will take place in the Round Table Pizza parking lot starting at 7 a.m. Sunday. Fees are $40 for adults and high school students; $30 for those in elementary and middle school; $15 for ages 2-8 in the Kid's Challenge, and $30 each for families of four or more.

Proceeds will go to support the Rotary Club of Pleasanton's scholarship program as well as Hope Hospice, Rotaplast, Tri-Valley YMCA, Valley Humane Society and victims of the Boston Marathon tragedy.

Beautiful etched-glass trophies will be awarded to the top male and female finishers, as well as the first-place male and female Masters (over 50 years old) winners. In addition, medals are given in designated age groups for both male and female participants. Each child participating in the Kids' Challenge will receive a finisher ribbon.

Check-in and race-day registration opens at 6:30 a.m. in the parking lot of the now-closed Round Table Pizza restaurant on Main Street.

Fair opens Wednesday

By DOLORES FOX CIARDELLI

Spend $1 to attend the Alameda County Fair on opening day plus $1 for rides — which leaves money to spend on corn dogs, turkey legs and funnel cake. The Fair, in its 101st year, opens Wednesday and runs through July 7.

"Summer Fun Starts Here" is the theme of this year's Fair. As always, it offers unique deep-fried edibles, such as Pop Tarts, pineapple upside down cake, watermelon and cookie dough. Food on a stick includes macaroni and cheese, peanut butter and jelly and Doritos.

Some healthy foods are fresh salads, fish tacos, shrimp cocktail, fish ceviche, grilled veggies and fresh fruit.

The Fair offers much more than food. The colorful thrills of the carnival are a big draw, as are the live thoroughbred racing, nightly free concerts and the fireworks being held Fridays. Also popular are the agricultural and competitive live stock exhibits, ethnic and cultural days, home art and technological competitions.

The Fair features contests galore, with a Diaper Derby at 11 a.m. July 5; the Battle of the Local Bands, noon-5:30 p.m. June 28; the Hot Dog Eating Chili Relay Contest at 11:30 a.m. July 4; and the Kissing Contest on June 29 — contestants must show up by 5:45 p.m. and the kissing starts at 6 p.m. exactly. For a complete list, go to www.AlamedaCountyFair.com.

Last year's Fair drew 534,577, and officials expect even more this year. Let the summer fun begin. ■

Woman killed while bicycling remembered as animal lover, doting grandmother

Police: investigation continues, several witnesses have been in contact

BY GLENN WOHLTMANN

The daughter of a Dublin woman killed while bicycling on Foothill Road on Sunday said the driver who struck her mother has "broken my family."

"The world is a darker place without her," said Heather Grimm, 30.

Diana Hersevoort, 58, and her husband were riding north on Foothill Road, near Golden Eagle Way, at about 1 p.m. when the two were hit by a car, according to police. Hersevoort was thrown from her bicycle and pronounced dead at the scene. Her husband Joe was taken to a hospital where he was treated for minor injuries and released.

The car, a 2004 silver Dodge Neon, was driven by an 18-year-old Pleasanton man who was also heading north, police said. The 18-year-old stopped at the scene and answered police questions but did not give a statement, police Sgt. Robert Leong said.

The driver has not been arrested, and the cause of the collision is under investigation.

Leong said preliminary information indicates that Hersevoort and her husband were riding single-file in the bike lane on the side of the roadway when they were hit.

He said several witnesses have contacted police.

"If we have enough to pursue a charge we will forward it" to the Alameda County District Attorney's Office, Leong said.

Grimm described her mother Tuesday as an animal lover and a "bright, loving person."

Her father sustained a broken leg.

"Physically, he's OK," Grimm said in a phone interview Tuesday from her family's home in Dublin.

She said she hopes the police investigation continues and that the 18-year-old is prosecuted. Grimm said it would help bring closure to the family.

"But anything that can be done now will not benefit my mother," she said. "What was taken cannot be replaced."

The bicycle ride was a weekly tradition of the couple, who rode together in various parts of the Tri-Valley region, Grimm said. They had been together for 35 years.

She said a private celebration of Hersevoort's life is being planned — and will take place outdoors because her mother loved nature.

"She was a lover of animals and flowers," Grimm said.

Hersevoort was also a fan of tie-dyed clothing, something Grimm hopes people will wear to her memorial. No date has been set.

She was a stay-at-home mom to Grimm and her older sister and was a proud grandmother to Grimm's 7-year-old son and 2-year-old daughter, Grimm said.

Grimm said her mother loved animals, and that growing up, their house was a "zoo" with many cats and dogs. The couple still has two cats and three dogs at their Dublin home.

Grimm said the local community and her extended family are providing support.

A high school friend of her mother's stopped by with five bags of groceries after the accident, she said. ■

Pair charged after dog attacks child twice

Injured 5-year-old in protective custody

A Pleasanton man and a Dublin woman have been charged with felony child neglect and endangerment after the man's dog attacked the woman's 5-year-old son twice in less than three months.

Dog owner Marc Kornberg, 36, and the boy's mother, Myrvete Lila, 27, were arrested June 7 on felony warrants from the District Attorney's Office.

A police investigation determined the attack was the second on the boy. After the first attack, on March 6, the dog was placed on home quarantine and released when there were no other incidents of violence. The boy was treated and released from a local hospital.

In the second attack, on May 19, Pleasanton police officers accompanied an emergency medical crew to Kornberg's Bernal Avenue apartment for a reported dog bite where they found the boy with multiple facial injuries.

Both attacks were at Kornberg's home and in both, the boy suffered facial injuries from the dog, "Boston," a 6-year-old, 96-pound Presa Canario. The breed has been known at times to be aggressive.

"As a result of the second dog bite, and the fact that in both cases the boy was left alone in a room with the dog, our investigation was sent to the Alameda County District Attorney's Office for review, Lt. Jeff Bretzing said in a news release. "The District Attorney's Office issued felony warrants for both Kornberg and Myrvete."

The city stepped in after the second attack on the boy. On May 28, a public dog hearing was held and the dog was found to be vicious. Boston was ordered to be relocated to a rehabilitation and training facility in Ohio. The other option would have been to euthanize the dog, but Kornberg chose to send the dog away.

The boy's name is not being released. He was placed in protective custody with Alameda County Child Protective Services.

Mount Diablo Beacon removed for repairs

1928 fixture overdue for maintenance

By JESSICA LIPSKY

The Eye of Diablo, in serious disrepair after years of neglect, was removed Tuesday from the summit building to begin renovation work in advance of the annual Pearl Harbor Day remembrance ceremony. The 85-year-old beacon atop Mount Diablo is lit every Dec. 7, and its light must be pushed by hand to begin rotation for the ceremony.

While retired ranger Burt Bogardus made sure the beacon worked each year, proper care and maintenance have not been done.

"This is the first step in being able to actually begin restoration work on the beacon so it will be restored for the Dec. 7 lighting," said Save Mount Diablo spokeswoman Beryl Anderson. "It may be the last couple of years that we have our local Pearl Harbor survivors around to turn the light on in commemoration of their fallen comrades."

Windy conditions at the Mount Diablo peak Tuesday almost stopped the lift-off, but crews managed to remove the beacon and get it down the mountain in about 45 minutes, as Pearl Harbor survivors and park rangers looked on.

A giant crane lifted the 1,500 pound beacon from its perch and transported it to a state-approved shop in Concord for remediation of lead and asbestos as well as a cracked front lens. The bearings at the base of the beacon have never been serviced, and electrical connections and wiring will be renewed or repaired.

Legislation adopted in July 2012 waived contracting requirements for state park projects and allowed the nonprofit group Save Mount Diablo to provide volunteers and donations to make repairs under state supervision.

The following work will be done:

- Lamp (originally 1500 watt 32 volt incandescent bulb) will be replaced with a 1000 watt 120 volt bulb.
- Remote control to turn on the beacon will be converted to a wireless unit.
- Six to eight broken panes of the 12-pane segmented window will be replaced.
- Rusted sheet metal "doghouse" base will be replaced.
- Project analysis to comply with the American Institute for Conservation of Historic and Artistic Works and the Secretary of the Interior's standards for the treatment of historic properties in order to maintain the historic integrity of the beacon.

Volunteers will replace the lead-based paint peeling on the beacon and repaint the Eye with weather resistant paint. Crews will need to repair the bare metal on the beacon, which been exposed to harsh summit conditions, as well as design new routes for the cables that run through the beacon's base. The red, blinking aircraft obstruction light will also be repaired.

The beacon was installed in 1928 by Standard Oil, and used by the likes of Charles Lindbergh and other pioneering aviators. The light was turned off in 1941 after the Pearl Harbor bombing to ensure the Japanese could not use it as a target; it was relit for the first time in 1964 as the centerpiece of a Pearl Harbor memorial ceremony hosted by Save Mount Diablo and the Sons and Daughters of Pearl Harbor Survivors Association.

The beacon restoration will cost approximately $100,000, with $38,000 donated by organizations and community members, then matched by the Dean and Margaret Leshner Foundation. Save Mount Diablo needs another $12,000 to complete the beacon restoration project; find details on how to donate at www.savemountdiablo.org.

Once funds have been raised, the beacon will be placed back atop the summit building in the fall. ■ of Police finds that an examination or treatment is necessary..."

Hart said the reason for the new codes is that the courts are so backed up with crimes against people that they don't have time to consider animal cases. With the new codes in place, however, when someone has a documented past of not caring for a pet — meaning someone who has had multiple citations issued — the Police Department can ask the District Attorney's Office to file animal abuse charges.

Although it's unnecessary for most pet owners, the new codes also require owners to provide a proper diet, too. That new code section reads, "The food shall be wholesome, palatable, free from contamination, and of sufficient quantity and nutritive value to meet the normal daily requirements for the condition and size of the animal..."

In an unrelated food matter, as of July 1, restaurants in Pleasanton will be required to use recyclable containers for takeout food.

That new law was put in place to get rid of Styrofoam containers; many takeout restaurant have already switched to cardboard containers. ■

Former Pleasanton student dead in Marin County homicide

Body found at at Point Reyes National Seashore

A former student at two Pleasanton high schools was identified as the victim of a homicide discovered June 6 at Point Reyes National Seashore in rural west Marin County.

The body of Trisha Hopfe, 31, was found by a hiker near Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in the area of Platform Bridge Road around 9:45 a.m. She had not been reported missing.

The National Park Service asked the Marin County Sheriff's Office to investigate the death, sheriff's Lt. Jamie Scardina said. According to reports, Hopfe showed signs of physical injury, although the sheriff's office said she had not been shot.

Results from an autopsy performed June 7 have not been released and toxicology results are pending. Hopfe was identified by fingerprints.

The sheriff's office is interviewing witnesses to determine a motive, and there is no suspect or suspect description at this time, Scardina said.

Hopfe attended Amador Valley and Village high schools. She also lived in San Ramon and Hayward. She is survived by two children, her parents and three siblings; her father was a Hayward police officer.

Anyone with information is asked to call the sheriff's office at (415) 473-7265.

San Ramon senior first-ever recipient of DSRSD scholarship

$2,000 grant from public agency concerns some

BY GLENN WOHLTMMANN

A graduating senior at Dougherty Valley High School in San Ramon is the first recipient of the $2,000 Dublin San Ramon Services District James B. Kohnen Scholarship.

Justin Salomon Tran recently received his award at a Dublin San Ramon Services District Board meeting. Tran plans to study geophysics at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

He has been a member of the National Honor Society since 2011, a camp counselor at Walker Creek Outdoor School since 2011, captain of the football and track and field teams, and vice president of the Gardening Club at Dougherty Valley high.

The $2,000 scholarship is a drop in the bucket for the district, which has an annual operating budget of $53 million, but the move by a public agency to create a scholarship has raised the eyebrows of some.

The money comes from the administrative budget for the DSRSD, according to spokeswoman Sue Stephenson.

"That means the money comes from ratepayer and capacity fees," Stephenson said. "We used to call that a connection fee."

Capacity fees are paid by developers as they tap into DSRSD water or sewer services.

"The purpose of the scholarship — the primary purpose — is to honor James Kohnen for all his public service," Stephenson said. "The secondary purpose for the scholarship is to inspire young people to follow (Kohnen) in his service. Nobody thinks about wanting to grow up to be an environmentalist. This is a little opportunity to get high school kids to think about us when they embark upon a career path."

Kohnen, a former member of the DSRSD Board of Directors, died last year. He devoted many years of his life to managing and protecting the public water supply.

As a member of the DSRSD Board of Directors from 1992 to 2000, Kohnen was instrumental in developing water service for the Dougherty Valley. He also helped expand the use of bring recycled water in the Tri-Valley, along with helping expand water, waste water and recycled water services to east Dublin and expanding the Regional Wastewater Treatment Facility.

Kohnen served on the boards of the Zone 7 Water Agency, the Alameda County Special Districts Association, the American Society for Quality, the Alameda County Mosquito Abatement District, and the California Special Districts Association.

The idea of a scholarship in Kohnen's name started with a board member. While others have had benches or facilities named after them, board member Mary Gordon said the tribute should be education-related, in keeping with Kohnen who was a lifelong learner.

"When staff took it to the board, they suggested a $1,000 scholarship and the board said, 'No, let's make it $2,000 to take a little bit of the bite out of the cost of college,'" Stephenson said.

Tran was the solo applicant for the scholarship, but Stephenson said based on his qualifications, he would have won anyway. ■

PG&E launches new economic vitality grant program

Local nonprofits eligible to sign up for grants

Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) has launched an economic vitality grant program designed to promote economic growth in communities throughout the utility's service area in Northern and Central California.

Through this pilot program, up to $200,000 will be awarded to local government organizations, educational institutions and 501(c)3 non-profit organizations to provide funding for projects or programs designed to spur innovation and job creation.

PG&E representatives said that the shareholder-funded program will invest in local initiatives that aim to attract, retain or expand local businesses, provide business development, incubation or acceleration opportunities, or provide valuable workforce training. In addition, these grants will be awarded to projects that aim to spur job creation within local economies struggling to recover from the economic downturn.

"As one of the state's largest employers and a key contributor to many local economies, PG&E is focused on the economic health of our customers and California," said Ezra Garrett, PG&E vice president for Community Relations and chief sustainability officer. "Through this pilot program, we will provide local non-profits and institutions the resources they need to spur job creation and to promote economic vitality in the communities which we are privileged to serve."

Applications for PG&E's Economic Vitality Grant Program will be accepted from June 4 through July 31. To learn more and apply, sign on to the PG&E website at www.pge.com/evgrants. ■

Raley's warns customers of cyber attack

CEO: 'We are working around the clock to gather details'

BY GLENN WOHLTMANN

Raley's is warning of a cyber attack that targeted its computer network and may have allowed access to credit and debit card information.

On its website the company, which includes Raley's, Nob Hill, Food Source stores and Aisle One fuel stations, the firm called the attack "complex," and said it is trying to determine if customer data has been compromised.

"At this time, the company has not confirmed any unauthorized access to payment card data, but its investigation remains ongoing," a statement on the company's website says. "Raley's does not believe that debit PINs could have been accessed."

The company has taken "a series of immediate steps" to enhance security measures already in place to protect customer data, and says "customers can continue using their payment cards in its stores."

The website notes that the company does not collect Social Security or driver's license numbers, and issued a list of steps customers should take:

- Check and monitor your bank and credit card statements for evidence of unauthorized transactions;
- Contact your bank or credit card company if you identify suspicious charges; and

- Know that cardholders are not held responsible for fraudulent charges made by unauthorized parties if reported promptly to the card issuer.

Raley's has a response team to answer customer questions and will provide customers updates as they become available.

"We are working around the clock to gather details to determine the extent of any possible compromise of customer information," a statement from Raley's President and CEO Mike Teel said.

Customers can reach Raley's response team from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily at (800) 925-9989 or at Raleys.com. ■

THE OPINION OF THE WEEKLY

Lawyer's high-speed rail, Measure PP arguments much the same

Much has been written about California's controversial high-speed rail system, a proposed $68 billion project that Gov. Jerry Brown but not many others are pushing to carry riders between Sacramento and Southern California at breakneck speeds. At one time, the rail line was planned to go through Livermore and Pleasanton to San Francisco but protests by both cities nixed that plan. Later, the routing was changed to a South Bay route from its main line in the Central Valley, a routing that has been challenged by Palo Alto and other Peninsula cities.

Now the Pleasanton connection is back with a lawsuit filed by Stuart Flashman, one of two attorneys representing Kings County plaintiffs who contend that plans to start building the rail line are not following the financing and environmental approvals California voters approved in a $10 billion bond under Proposition 1A in 2008 that was to provide kick-start funds. Central Valley farmers and local officials, represented by Flashman, claim the rail system could lead to financial disaster. For now, the project has been stopped pending the court's decision.

Coincidentally, Flashman is the same Oakland attorney whose threat of a lawsuit against the city of Pleasanton has also temporarily stopped further consideration by the City Council of Measure PP, a hillside protection ordinance that, like Prop. 1A, was also approved by voters in 2008. And like the high-speed rail project, Measure PP is now languishing as Flashman and another attorney, Kristina Lawson of the San Francisco law firm of Manatt, Phelps & Phillips, decide whether to move forward on a suit contesting the legality of changes made to Measure PP since the public vote.

Flashman may have a point when it comes to "tinkering" with Measure PP by planners and council members, but joint discussions may dissuade the lawyers from filing a costly and time-consuming suit. But Flashman is clearly on the mark with his legal argument against the high speed rail system. In the suit, Kings County plaintiffs accuse the state of failing to have all the financing and environmental approvals for the initial phase in place before construction starts, which is planned for this summer. Without them, the state could end up with a train to nowhere, with farmers and others forced to sell their land to the California High-Speed Rail Authority for no good reason. Flashman argues that taxpayers could be funding a project that would end up leaving the state with 130 miles of rail that's unusable for anything except maybe to carry Amtrak trains a short distance.

Flashman and other attorneys involved in the court case are convinced that a financing plan delivered to the state Legislature in November 2011 fails to live up to Prop. 1A. They've asked Sacramento County Superior Court Judge Michael Kenny to rule that the Legislature's approval of money to begin construction is invalid and halt construction. The Sacramento Bee reports, however, that lawyers with the state Attorney General's office, representing the rail authority, argue that the funding plan is legal. Just because the plaintiffs in the lawsuit are not satisfied is no reason to order a costly and time-consuming do-over. This sounds much like what the Pleasanton council and Measure PP advocates are saying about Flashman's threat of a lawsuit here.

The Sacramento judge has 90 days to render a decision on the rail authority suit. The Pleasanton council, also faced with Flashman's legal threat, has tabled its consideration of the issue indefinitely. ■

OBITUARIES

PAID OBITUARIES

Margaret "Peggy" Jean Karn

Jan. 22, 1929-May 21, 2013

Margaret J. "Peggy" Karn died May 21, 2013 in ValleyCare Hospital after a courageous 10-year battle with multiple system atrophy, a rare and debilitating disease. She was 84. She was born Jan. 22, 1929 in Oakland to Mary Celeste and Americus P. Britto. She grew up in Oakland and graduated from Fremont High School.

When she was a sophomore at Fremont High, she met Richard Karn, who became the love of her life. They attended Dick's Senior Ball together before he graduated and joined the Navy. They were married before Dick's senior year at the University of California, Berkeley and she worked to put him through his final year. She raised their daughter, Pam, and their son, Bob, while they lived in Castro Valley and later Hayward. Dick established his own civil engineering firm in 1966. While living in Hayward, they were members of Hayward Dance Club and enjoyed quarterly dances to big band music. She was an active volunteer with the Almond Branch of the Children's Hospital Auxiliary and enjoyed modeling in their fundraising fashion shows. They moved to Pleasanton 26 years ago. She was a member of Centerpointe Presbyterian Church (formerly Pleasanton Presbyterian) and served on the board of elders. Peggy also was an active member of PEO for more than 25 years. Peggy, a beautiful, creative, loving wife and mother was always there with a smile and a kiss. She was a vivacious woman with a great sense of humor who took delight in making people laugh. She was a person with firm convictions who was willing to speak up when the situation required it. Peggy loved to work with colors and established an interior design business with a number of clients. She used her design skills in Dick's engineering offices as well as guiding the updating of Pleasanton Presbyterian Church's former Mirador Drive site. She was also an accomplished artist in oils. She and Dick travelled widely, touring most of the world, often with professional engineering societies. Dick was involved in leadership of these groups and she joined him on business travel. Her favorite destination was Italy, although she enjoyed some memorable trips to Africa, Russia and other European and Asian countries. They routinely spent the month of February in Baja California. She is survived by her husband of 64 years, Richard Karn, her daughter Pam Karn of Oakland, her son, Bob, and loving daughter-in-law Diane, of Vacaville, her sister Gloria Hotton of Franklin, WI., and grandchildren Shawn, Matthew, Rachelle, Lisa and Tom and her great-grandson Wesley. She also leaves a large extended family who she greatly valued, including her care-giver for 2 1/2 years, Rose Fernandez.

A memorial service celebrating her life will be held at 3 p.m. Friday, June 28 at Centerpointe Presbyterian Church, 3410 Cornerstone Court, Pleasanton.

The family prefers gifts in her memory to Brain Support Network at P.O. Box 7264, Menlo Park, CA 94026 in support of research on Multiple System Atrophy or Hope Hospice at 6377 Clark Ave., Dublin, CA 94568.

POLICE BULLETIN

Residential burglary nets more than $13,000

Precious metal, jewelry and electronics worth about $13,400 were reported stolen in a June 5 burglary at a home in the 7800 block of Oak Creek Drive. Two gold bars worth $3,000 were stolen, along with a diamond and platinum ring worth $2,500, two laptops, one worth $3,000 and a second worth $2,000, a $2,000 video camera, a $600 iPad and a $300 electronic book. Entry was made by breaking open the front door between 3 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

In other police reports:

- Louis Vitton items worth more than $5,700 were among the items stolen June 7 from the trunk of a car parked at an apartment complex in the 5700 block of Owens Drive. Taken were a wallet and purse combination valued at $3,510, a shoulder bag worth $1,520, and a wallet worth $685. Also stolen were shoes valued at $1,295, two dresses worth a total of $377, and $30 gold earrings. The break-in occurred between 12:30 a.m. and 6:30 a.m.
- A resident of the 3500 block of Kincaldy Street reported a telephone scam in which the caller told the resident he had unpaid taxes; the resident made five separate wire payments, one for $1,000, another for $622, another for $1,000, a fourth for $1,000 and a final $186. The caller explained that he'd found additional fines to get the additional money, which totaled $3,808. The fraud was reported at about 11:27 p.m. June 5.
- Noe Alas, 25, of Pleasanton was arrested for burglary at about 2:37 a.m., June 10 after a break-in at Ocean Spa in the 4300 block of First Street. Alas was arrested when a passerby saw the front door of the business had been broken in. Officers found Alas hiding in the bushes nearby and matched his shoe print to the glass door.

- A June 8 theft from an unlocked vehicle at Clubsport in the 7000 block of Johnson Drive netted a $700 iPad, four gift cards worth a total of $400, a $250 iPod, a bluetooth earpiece worth $130, and a $40 backpack. The theft took place between 1:40 p.m. and 3:10 p.m.
 - A laptop and a desktop computer worth $500 apiece and $275 cash from a register were stolen in a burglary at Copy Station in the 6600 block of Owens Drive. The burglary occurred between 7 a.m. June 8 and 6:38 p.m. June 9, with entry through the front door.
 - A resident of the 5500 block of Springdale Avenue reported someone had entered a credit card in her name and charged $799.51. The theft was reported at about 5:03 p.m. June 7.
 - Arson was reported about 7:52 a.m. June 6 at GP Fire Protection in the 2100 block of Rheem Drive. A 90-gallon trash can worth $200 was demolished and burned into the cement; damage to the cement was estimated at $500.
 - An iPad worth $500 was stolen June 5 from a home in the 5700 block of Via Peralta. Entry was made by prying open a panel of a garage door between 9:30 a.m. and 2:45 p.m.
 - A resident of the 8000 block of Arroyo Drive reported someone had used her access card to make two charges, one for $300 and another for $100, and also used her name as a witness to police; she learned about that incident when contacted by the Contra Costa County District Attorney's Office. The incident was reported at about 10:14 a.m. June 11.
 - A resident of the 4100 block of Silver Street reported on June 9 that someone had used her debit card number at several locations, charging $14.08, $90.57, $128.33 and $134.41.

Calling all triathletes, including beginners

Shadow Cliffs event has been tri-ing for 26 years

Shadow Cliffs park will be swarming tomorrow with close to 800 runners, swimmers and bikers as they kick off On Your Mark Events' 26th annual Tri For Fun Triathlon Series.

The series continues through the summer, with additional Tri For Fun events taking place July 20 and Aug. 17 and culminating with a Tri for Real triathlon Sept. 15.

The Tri For Fun course features a 400-yard swim in Shadow Cliffs Lake, an 11-mile bike ride on flat streets, and a 3.1-mile run on a rolling fire trail. This adds up to a shorter distance than used in competitive events.

"Providing a fantastic experience for all participants is truly our main goal with the Tri For Fun," said event co-principal Mark Aiton. "There are now literally thousands of people who cut their triathlon teeth with the Tri For Fun, and they keep coming back, as well as take part with our other longer-distance triathlons."

Tri For Fun is an excellent event for first-time triathletes, noted the organizers, adding that it's not unusual to see a 9-year old running alongside a 78-year old.

Throughout the series, at least 60% of all the participants will be beginners, Aiton said.

After novice athletes hone their skills at the first three Tri For Funs, they can meet the challenge of the final event — the Tri For Real — which is held at the same location, but with distances increased to a 700-yard swim, a 20-mile bike ride, and a 4-mile run. The Tri For Real is also professionally timed and gives out official results.

Many veteran triathletes say the Tri For Fun short course is a good way to sharpen their racing and transition techniques, Aiton said. This group is always sent out in the first wave, so they can jump way ahead of the less experienced.

For the past 25 years, the Tri For Fun triathlons have been non-timed and non-competitive, although a clock was at the finish line for participants to view their personal time. For the first time this year, triathletes can choose whether or not to be officially timed, with results posted on the results page at onyourmarkevents.com.

Check-in and registration will begin at 5 a.m., with the first wave hitting the water at 7 a.m. at Shadow Cliffs Regional Recreation Area, 2500 Stanley Blvd., Pleasanton. There is a 1,000-participant maximum for each triathlon.

Entry fee for the three Tri For Funs is $65 (non-timed) and $73 (chip timed) in advance; $10 will be added to race-day registrants. Participants will receive a commemorative T-shirt, refreshments, snacks and entry into a drawing. For September's Tri For Real, the fee is $75 in advance, and $85 the day of the race.

To learn more, go to onyourmarkevents.com or call (209) 795-7832. ■

JONATHAN LANCE/ON YOUR MARK EVENTS.

Last year's Tri For Fun triathletes begin an 11-mile bike ride on flat streets, and others run 3.1 miles on a rolling fire trail. The Tri For Fun event also includes a 400-yard swim.

PET OF THE WEEK

VALLEY HUMANE SOCIETY/V. KELLY

A real sweetheart

Eager to please, 10-month-old Aubrey is a real sweetheart. This tiny rat terrier mix is a real softie when it comes to getting attention. Aubrey is looking for a calm home with a family who will be cautious of her vulnerable size. She would benefit from plenty of exercise, a puppy school training course, and lots of encouragement. Get to know Aubrey at Valley Humane Society from 1-4 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays; and noon-4 p.m. Sundays, 3670 Nevada St. Call 426-8656 or visit www.valleyhumane.org.

Homes sales, prices up slightly

Median price in West was $263,600, up 17.5% from year ago

By JEB BING

Existing-home sales across the country rose in April but remained below underlying demand because of limited inventory and tight credit, according to the National Association of Realtors.

All regions showed strong price gains from a year ago.

Total existing home sales, which are completed transactions that include single-family homes, town homes, condominiums and co-ops, increased 0.6% to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 4.97 million in April from an upwardly revised 4.94 million in March. Resale activity was 9.7% above the 4.53 million-unit level in April 2012.

Lawrence Young, NAR chief economist, said the market is solidly recovering.

"The robust housing market recovery is occurring in spite of tight access to credit and limited inventory," he said. "Without these frictions, existing-home sales easily would be well above the 5-million unit pace. Buyer traffic was 31% stronger than a year ago, but sales were running only about 10% higher. It's become quite clear that the only way to tame price growth to a manageable, healthy pace is higher levels of new home construction."

Existing-home sales in April were at the highest pace since November 2009 when the market spiked to 5.44 million in response to the home buyer tax credit.

Total sales have been above year-ago levels for 22 consecutive months, while prices show 14 consecutive months of year-over-year price increases.

Total housing inventory at the end of April rose 11.9%, a seasonal increase to 2.16 million existing homes available for sale, which represented a 5.2-month supply at the current sales pace, compared with 4.7 months in March.

Listed inventory was 13.6% below a year ago, when there was a 6.6-month supply, with current availability tighter in the lower price ranges.

The national median existing-home price for all housing types was $192,800 in April, up 11.0% from April 2012. The last time there were 14 consecutive months of year-over-year price increases was from April 2005 to May 2006.

Distressed homes (foreclosures and short sales) accounted for 18% of April sales, down from 21% in March and 28% in April 2012. Eleven percent of April sales were foreclosures, and 7% were short sales. Foreclosures sold for an average discount of 16% below market value in April, while short sales were discounted 14%.

According to Freddie Mac, the national average commitment rate for a 30-year, conventional, fixed-rate mortgage fell to 3.45% in April from 3.57% in March; it was 3.91% in April 2012.

The median time on market for all homes was 46 days in April, down sharply from 62 days in March, and was 45% faster than the 83 days on market in April 2012.

NAR President Gary Thomas, broker-owner of Evergreen Realty in Villa Park, Calif., said market conditions have flipped in the past year.

“With homes selling in half the time it took to sell a year ago, buyers must be both decisive and prudent,” he said. “Advice with contract terms and negotiations is where the expertise of a Realtor shines for both buyers and sellers.”

Short sales were on the market for a median of 73 days, while foreclosures typically sold in 43 days and non-distressed homes took 44 days. Forty-four percent of all homes sold in April were on the market for less than a month, while only 8% were on the market for a year or longer.

First-time buyers accounted for 29% of purchases in April, compared with 30% in March and 35% in April 2012. All-cash sales were at 32% of transactions in April, up from 30% in March; they were 29% in April 2012. Individual investors, who account for most cash sales, purchased 19% of all homes in April, unchanged from March; they were 20% in April 2012.

Single-family home sales rose 1.2% to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 4.38 million in April from 4.33 million in March, and are 9.0% above the 4.02 million-unit level in April 2012. The median existing single-family home price nationally was $193,300 in April, which is 11.0% above a year ago. ■

DISTRESSED SELLERS

The Mortgage Forgiveness Debt Relief Act of 2007 was created to relieve homeowners of the phantom income tax associated with forgiven debt from a short sale, foreclosure, or loan modification. Although this legislation was set to expire at the end of 2012, the recently passed American Taxpayer Relief Act extended this exemption through 2013. www.JuliaHelpsDistressedSellers.com
